Mrs. William Paul returned this morning to her home in Montreal, after passing a few weeks with friends in the city.

Leroy Goodell of Worcester is passing a few days in the city, the guest of Deputy Sheriff A. M. Morrison of Batchelder street.

Dr. W. R. Rowland and Kenneth C. Butler returned to East Corinth last night, after passing a few days with friends in the city.

M. W. Weisberg of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is making an extended visit with friends in this city, went to Middlebury this noon for a few days' stay.

The boys on Main street have discovered that if they want to "get in right" they have got to dig down occasionally for a box of "Helle Maud Swags." Barre Drug company has exclusive agency.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Thursday afternoon, Nov. 23, with Mrs. Flora Beckley, 6 Park street. After the meeting there will be a program and social hour. Members are earnestly requested to be present.

Be sure to go to the Bijou to-night and see that I. M. P., "The Moth." The name of the picture speaks for itself; a sparkling drama, cleverly written and cleverly interpreted. Another good picture, a western film, is "The Outlaw's Trail."

A special meeting of the ladies' aid society of St. Monica's church will be held Thursday evening at the convent at 7:30 o'clock. All the entertainment committee, solicitors and contributors will please take notice of the change of date, as there is special and important business to come before the meeting.

Smith & Cummings received three deer yesterday, which are on exhibition at their market on North Main street. Two of the bucks, weighing 175 and 125 pounds respectively, were brought down in Middlesex. The third, one of the finest specimens seen this season, was killed in Waterbury and weighs 223 pounds by actual weight.

Numerous stories of the deer killing have caused thirty-eight more Barre hunters to answer the call of the woods since deer season opened, November 15, the first day of the open season. 721 licenses had been issued from the city clerk's office. The figures have since been augmented to 759, but this record falls short of the number last year, when 825 of the permits were granted.

The dancing Bicknells, who close their engagement at the Pavilion to-night, present a dancing act that is considerably away from the usual dancing act. Their work consists almost entirely of ball room dancing, executed with unusual grace and finish. The fancy dancing that they do is of the most difficult kind and the ease with which they do it is really remarkable. The act is of a very high standard and, while it is not sensational, it is very pleasing and worthy of great praise. Billy Dick, the singing musician, is a bit at every show. His clever guitar playing and excellent singing mark him as an excellent entertainer and bring him a hearty round of applause at every show. An all-new program of pictures comes to-day, the feature of which is a western comedy drama, entitled "A New York Cowboy." The picture is a combination of thrills and laughs. Many of the patrons of the Pavilion were surprised last night when they received a small coupon. The management of the Pavilion proposes to give a forty-two-piece dinner set away next Tuesday afternoon, and the coupons were numbers on the dinner set. The only stipulation regarding the giving of the dinner set is that the person holding the lucky number be in the theatre. If the first number drawn is not in the theatre, other numbers will be drawn until someone in the house wins the dishes.

A HUMANE SOCIETY FOUNTAIN.

Is Being Placed at City Square by City Officials.

Under the direction of Street Superintendent Jesse C. DeBune and H. E. Reynolds, superintendent of the water department, the work of installing the new water fountain at the junction of Washington, Main and Elm streets was started this morning. The fountain, it will be recalled, was presented by the National Humane Alliance of New York City, through the efforts of its secretary, the late L. M. Seaver, of Williamstown. It is expected that two days will be required to place the fountain in position.

The trough, base and ornamental head-piece is of Barre granite, quarried from the Boutwell, Milne & Varnum deposits at Graniteville and cut by Marr & Gordon. Four 8-inch depressions at each corner of the base will be filled with fresh water for the thirsty-dog population of the city. The bowl for the horses, as well as other parts of the fountain, is of polished granite. A large ball of polished stone will surmount the centerpiece and a high-candle power light will be attached to the very top of the ball, insulation having been provided through grounded wires. A bronze tablet containing an inscription will be placed above the bowl.

FINE TONE QUALITY

In Baptist Pipe Organ as Brought Out by Prof. Wheaton.

An audience which filled the auditorium of the First Baptist church last evening was charmed with the pipe organ recital by Prof. William A. Wheaton, the several selections by local singers and the readings by Dr. F. M. Lynde. All the parts of the well-arranged program were enthusiastically received.

The recital gave opportunity to many people to hear for the first time the fine pipe organ recently installed in the church, as played by a master hand; and at the close they were united in praise of the tones of the instrument and the manner of bringing them out by Prof. Wheaton, who had selected his numbers from a wide range so that he could develop all there was in the organ. He started with Offenbach's overture "La Grande Duchesse de Gerolstein," later playing Mozart's "Gloria, from the 12th Mass," Spindler's "Vergissmeinnicht," Thomas' "Gavotte from Mignon," and ended with Mendel's march "Triumphale." So insistent was the demand after each number that Prof. Wheaton responded with encores.

Adding greatly to the program were the vocal selections. A male quartet, consisting of Messrs. D. C. Jarvis, Fred Inglis, Frederick Edwards and William J. Inglis, sang two numbers on the program, and achieved great success, as did a quartet of brothers and sisters, Mrs. E. J. Batchelder, Miss Henrietta Inglis and Messrs. Fred and William J. Inglis. No less satisfactory to the audience was the reading by Dr. Lynde, who added to his already well-established reputation in that entertainment. Therefore, taken singly or as a whole, the entertainment was one of the best given in Barre in some time.
